Two years ago I bought two tickets online to see the love of my life in a play

Actually, last night I had a dream with him

Ricardo Darin : Carol, I love you, I have loved you since the first time I saw you.
Run away with me.

Carol: Ricardo, Our love is impossible. I can't leave my Beauchef students but I will always have you in my heart

The King of Complainers

Clive Zietman loves complaining – but not shouting in hotel lobbies, or angrily telling a salesperson to call the manager, or making a waitress cry. He loves complaining properly and in writing. Over the last 20 years, he has written over 5,000 letters of complaint. His successes include refunded vacations, countless free meals, and complimentary theater tickets.

So how has he achieved this? “Screaming and shouting is a complete waste of time and is usually directed at a person who is not in a position to do anything,” he says. “I like to write a polite letter to the company. People won’t want to help you if you are aggressive. They respond much better to good manners.”

It all started many years ago, on a boring train trip home to West London. The train passed by a cookie factory, and the smell of the cookies made Clive feel hungry. He wrote a letter to the managing director to complain, in a humorous way, about the fumes coming through the train window. The result? Some free packages of cookies. But since then there have been more serious victories as well. On one occasion he managed to get a Volkswagen Golf GTI within 24 hours for a friend who had been complaining for almost a year (without any success) about his faulty vehicle. On another occasion he got a travel agent to refund the cost of a vacation after Clive’s wife Bettina broke her leg when she slipped in a puddle of water in their vacation apartment in Spain.

These days, there is almost nothing he won't complain about. After Clive was served moldy strawberries on a British Airways flight, he used a courier service to send the fruit to the airline's chief executive. To compensate, BA invited his daughters, Nina and Zoë, to Heathrow to personally inspect the airline's catering facilities. "I just can't bear bad service," says Clive. "We have a right to good service, and should expect it and demand it. In fact, what irritates me more than anything is that, unlike Americans, we British are hopeless at complaining."

So how do Bettina, his wife, and daughters Nina, 22, Zoë, 18, and 12-year-old son Joe cope with living with one of the world's biggest complainer? Surely he must be a nightmare to live with? Has he ever asked Bettina to explain why a meal she made is badly cooked? "Oh, no, of course not," says Clive. It seems there are some things even he knows you should never complain about!

How to complain successfully:

Clive's top tips

DON'T BE TOO SPECIFIC
DON'T LOSE YOUR TEMPER
KNOW WHO YOU ARE WRITING TO THREATEN ACTION
WRITE A LETTER
USE FLATTERY

1

Never shout and swear – it achieves nothing. Don't spoil your meal or your vacation by getting into an argument with a waiter or customer service call center operator. Make a mental note of the circumstances and write a letter later.

2

Don't send emails, or standard, printed-out complaints forms. Companies may not read these, but they probably will read a letter. And unless you are particularly fond of Vivaldi, don't waste your time calling a customer complaint line! Your letter should be short and to the point, and should fit on one side of an 8 1/2" by 11" sheet of paper. And type it. Reading other people's handwriting is hard work.

3

Write to the company's marketing director or finance director because they're probably the least busy. Find his or her name on the Internet or by calling. Writing Dear Sir / Madam is lazy. Taking the time to find a person's name and title shows initiative.

4

If your complaint is serious enough, make it clear you will not hesitate to change to another bank / cell phone company. Smart companies know that changing an angry customer into a satisfied one will make the customer more loyal.

5

Don't say exactly what you expect to receive as compensation. Leave it to the company.

6

Use phrases like "I can only imagine this is an unusual departure from your usual high standards," and "I would love to shop with you again if you can demonstrate to me that you are still as good as I know you used to be."

Speaking!

- 1 Who's best at complaining in your family? Give examples.
 - 2 Can you remember a time when you (or someone in your family) complained...?
 - to a taxi driver • to a hotel receptionist
 - to a waiter • to someone else
- Why did you complain? What did you say? What happened?
